BREAD PRICES TO INCREASE 40 PER CENT IN NEXT FEW DAYS

Cheapest Loaf to be Sold for 10 Cents According to Pittsburg Concern

FLOUR ADVANCES ARE BLAMED

Bread prices in the Pittsburg district, of which Charleroi is a part, will be increased probably the early part of next week fully 40 per cent. The increase will vary with the size of the loaf. The cheapest loaf sold by Pittsburg Baking concerns, which virtually control the prices, will cost 10 cents. Sharp advances in flour prices are blamed for the latest increase.

According to Pittsburg dealers the 10 cent loaf will be somewhat larger than the loaf that now sells for six cents, but will be two ounces less in weight than the present 10 cent loaf. The six cent loaf, formerly the five cent size, will no longer be baked.

A new size, weighing about 24 ounces will be sold for 15 cents. The present 15 cent loaf will cost 18 cents; the 18 cent loaf, 24 cents and the 24 cent loaf, 32 cents These prices were furnished by officials of the Ward Baking Company.

One concern, the Halley Baking company in Pittsburg said they anticipated no raise in prices. Charleroi bakers will hardly advance prices just yet, though there is a general fear that advances will be necessary.

One baker said he expected flour to go to $18 this summer. It is now selling at $13.50. Another baker was more optimistic, considering it probable there would be a drop as soon as reports are received on the next wheat crop "I don't thing wheat at $2.50 a bushel is justified even at this time." he said.

Even now substitutes are being invented Cornmeal has been named as one by Health Commissioner Haven of New York, who terms it "America's food for everybody."

BODY OF MAN KILLED IN TRAIN ACCIDENT REMOVED TO DONORA

The body of John Liszynski, aged 23 years of Donora, was taken Thursday to that point. He died in the Charleroi-Monessen hospital from an injury to both limbs. While riding on a freight train near the Monessen station he fell and wheels of the heavy cars passed over him. He was taken to the hospital where it was found necessary to amputate both limbs, one above and one below the knee. His death followed in three hours and the body was removed to the morgue of Deputy Coroner L. B. Frye.

The Epworth League of the M. E. church will hold a social in the church Friday evening April 27. Everybody is cordially invited.

VACANT GROUND NOW IN DEMAND

Several Inquiring for Lots for Possible Use in Gardening

SUFFRAGE WOMEN GET LIST

Vacant lots for gardening are in demand, according to the report of the Charleroi Woman Suffrage Association, which has been boosting the garden movement here. There are 12 persons now who are seeking places for gardens, having listed their names with the Woman's Suffrage association, and others it is said are anxiously inquiring for lots.

The association is making a thorough canvass of the borough in order to find possible locations. They already have located a number of lots listed for use. Some have been spaded up ready for planting.

Those who have lots or know of them as available for garden purposes are invited by the Suffrage Association to inform the Mail or a member of the Association.

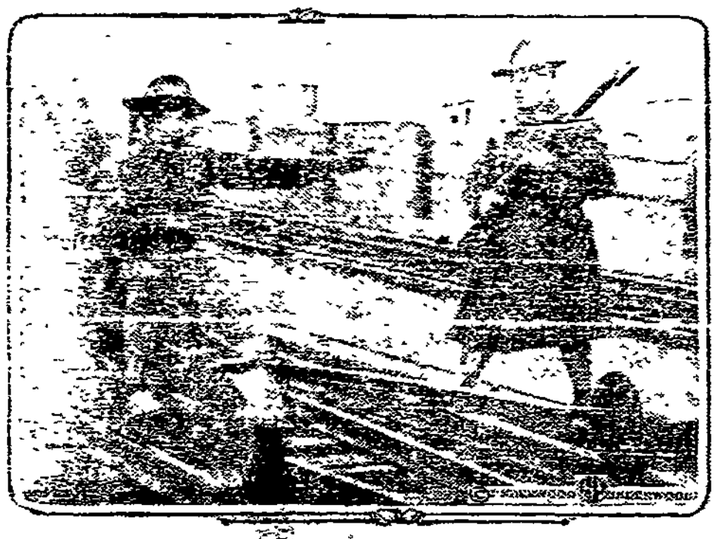
Sergeant Makes Rounds in Hand Car; Gives Secret Orders to Guard at Bridge



As a very necessary precaution against incendiarism and dastardly plotting the National Guard has been called into service in many places throughout the East. Soldiers are stationed along railroad lines and at all important manufacturing centers. This photograph shows a sentry on guard at a bridge near a large factory town "somewhere in New Jersey," receiving private orders from a sergeant making his inspection tour on a hand car. The dog may be on duty also, but for the present it is called the "mascot of the regiment."

VAUGHAN IN FAREWELL DRAWS GREAT CROWD

A crowd that filled the high school auditorium to overflowing enjoyed one of the finest music recitals ever given in Charleroi on Thursday night, when Walter Vaughan, a Monongahela valley young man, who has made good in the musical world appeared in company with three able assistants. They were Miss [illegible] Stitzer of Pittsburg, reader, Miss Norma Bosson of Charleroi, violinist and Miss Bertha Easter of [illegible] pianist and accompanist.

Mr. Vaughan sang nine program numbers and encore, all with great beauty of tone and brilliancy. His program afforded him splendid opportunity to demonstrate the unusual quality of his magnificent tenor voice. Every number was done in an exquisite style so that to select one as superior to another in rendition would indeed be difficult. However his audience picked out the great operatic selection, "Vesti la giubba," from Il Pagliacci, Leoncavallo, as his strongest work and evidenced vigorous appreciation.

Miss Easter helped Mr. Vaughan to an unusual degree with her splendid accompaniments. In addition she played one solo number, "Romance," Sibelius, with fine technic and expression and won appreciation that would not be satisfied without an encore number.

Miss Norma Bosson rendered the charming Andante movement from DeBeriot's Concerto No. 2, Op 32 in her own fine style and shared honors with the other performers of the evening. The audience was loth to see her leave the stage and demanded by eager applause another selection. She played "Orientale," Cui.

Miss Stitzer gave two readings, being encored both times. Her first effort was "A Quiet Afternoon," by Booth Tarkington, done in masterly manner. "Little Sister Snow" was perhaps a little more difficult, yet she read it with equal charm.

The recital in a sense was Mr. Vaughan's farewell to a Charleroi audience, since he will leave next week for New York city to begin a two year's contract singing with the Wolfsang Bureau, and incidentally to engage in church singing at a large Methodist Episcopal church in Mount Vernon. He appeared here under the auspices of Charleroi lodge No. 494, B. P. O. Elks.

CALIFORNIA HOLDS BIG DEMONSTATION

Between 3,500 and 4,000 persons participated in a great patriotic demonstration, held in California Friday evening. A parade composed of school pupils, miners' unions, lodges and other citizens' organizations preceded a mass meeting at Third and Wood streets, addressed by Attorney Rufus S. Marriner of Washington.

The parade was led by Chief Marshal James R. Hill and the South[illegible] State Normal [illegible] der's. They were followed by the California public school children, the children [illegible] and Phillipsburg schools in East Pike Run township and the Newell school in Fayette county across the river, with their teachers. The Brigade, Boy Scouts Moose lodge, veterans of the Civil war in automobiles, employes of the Vesta Coal company, four bands and other organizations and individuals participated in addition.

Business houses were closed during the parade, which formed in the normal school grounds. The line of march was through the principal streets to Coal Centre and return Business establishments and private residences were elaborately decorated for the occasion, the whole town presenting a gala appearance.

Work of preparation had been carefully done by several committees and the plans were carried out without a single marring incident.

15 cent social Friday evening at the P. H. C. hall. You are invited.

COMPANY TAKES THE LEAD

Notices were posted today at the Charleroi plant of the Macbeth-Evans Glass company declaring a general advance of ten per cent in wages, effective May 14. All employes in all departments will be affected, whether engaged on day or piece work. The increase will add approximately $85,000 year to the payroll. Fifteen hundred persons are employed at the plant, including girls.

In other plants of the company located at Toledo, Ohio, Ellwood, Ind., and Marion, a similar advance has been declared, approximating an increse in all three of $75,000 annually in the payroll.

The Macbeth-Evans company is the first glass concern to declare an advance this year, leading as it did last year. While the Macbeth-Evans advance dated from last April, other plants did not increase wages until June.

RABBI LEVY, WIDELY KNOWN LEADER DIES IN PITTSBURG

Rabbi J. Leonard Levy, pastor of the Rodef Shalom temple of Pittsburg and one of the most prominent Jewish clergymen in the country, died Friday night following a short illness from pneumonia. Rabbi Levy was born in London, England, November 24, 1865 and was a graduate of the University of London. He was a trustee of the Hebrew Union college, Cincinnati, the National Hospital for Consumptives, Denver, the Universal Peace Union and the University of Pittsburg. He was the author of a number of religious books.

Dr. Levy was well known in Charleroi, having many friends here and having visited here a number of times.

THEDA BARA APPEARING AT THE MAJESTIC TODAY

Theda Bara, widely known Fox star will be seen in a new role, considered by many her greatest, today at the Majestic theatre. The title of the production is "Her Greatest Love." The story is one of absorbing heart interest, in which Miss Bara is at her best. The photodrama is considered by the producers as one of the greatest they ever put out, which alone is sufficient recommendation.

FAYETTE COUNTY PUPILS GIVE [illegible] TEACHER

In at least one school in Fayette county, if not in more, the pupils during the past term have ceased the time-honored custom of giving the teacher big, rosy-cheeked apples for presents upon arrival in the morning. Not that they do not like their teacher, for she is very popular with them, but because they like her more than the value of an ordinary apple that has been grown in the home orchard.

For this particular teacher who has charge of one of the school rooms in Luzerne township, the children have brought to school many things during the past several months. Last week she was presented with eight eggs by as many pupils and even when the price was much higher, the pupils were bringing them to her. Tomatoes, potatoes and chewing gum have also been included among the gifts from the pupils. Of apples there have been a few, but in number they have been far less than the other things received.

COMPLETE REHEARSAL OF ELIJAH CHORUS AT HIGH SCHOOL TONIGHT

A full rehearsal of the chorus and orchestra for the production next Wednesday and Thursday of the great Mendelssohn oratorio, "Elijah" will be held tonight in the high school auditorium, and final arrangements made for the presentation. Just three rehearsals remain, that tonight, one Sunday at the Majestic theatre and the final one Monday at the Methodist Episcopal church. The chorus is rounding into good shape. The solo and special parts are completing their work of preparation.

It has been suggested that Charleroi would be a good location for a Red Cross chapter. The suggestion as the colored person in the comic would put it, 'listens good.'

Pittsburg has a chapter or two. Brownsville has a chapter. Between the two points no other city or borough, if our information is correct, has a chapter. If a city or town wishes to take up Red Cross work it must do it under the provisions of the Pittsburg, Brownsville or other chapter and be subject to its regulations, in accordance with a Red Cross map.

Charleroi has not done much yet in a patriotic way. It has not bothered about a parade for patriotic purposes. Now that opportunity is offered it can do this much for the Red Cross. Only a head and working organization is needed. As a natural center of a well populated territory work could be carried on here, or if deemed wiser to forego the chapter formation a unit of the Pittsburg district could be formed. Anyhow now is the time for action.

WHERE THE WAR HELPS

Donora high school boys have agreed to help out farmers. So far the school of the steel town schools are the only ones in the county to adopt the suggestion of Governor Brumbaugh and the state educational commission by aiding in producing greater quantities of food products. Other schools might well follow the plan.

Patriotism furnishes the inspiration, yet matters of patriotism not considered, the measure still would be one. This nation has been [illegible] far more than it has been producing if put to the test and developed intensely. With the aid of high school boys, to say nothing of the thousands of men and women who are joining heartily in the movement, for the first time in history the country will be at its best in production.

War must have some benefit, even if it is what Sherman said it was. Some times we have little conception of the good it does. The bloody wars of English history and the French Reformation brought about great reforms and advanced civilization. The Civil war reunited a divided people and stopped slavery. The Spanish-American war gave freedom to suffering peoples and unfolded great opportunities to them. Already the war in Europe, though at tremendous cost, has had its good results. Nations have been saved from rum. Development of natural resources as a matter of course has been compelled scientifically, with ideas of intense cultivation applied. In the years to come will we not discover that in spite of the cost, in spite of the loss of life, it has had a further good effect? Will not the agricultural learning our boys and girls receive as a by-product be among the benefits derived?

WHAT OTHERS THINK

* * * * * * * * * * *

TRY THE SIMPLE DIET

If there is to be any let-up in eating it is fortunate for us that it comes in the Spring of the year. Government experts exhort the people to economize in their food, eat less and shut down on meat one or two days a week. Probably it will do most folks much good to follow this advice.

There can be no question about it, the people of this country eat too much of everything. Much that is consumed can be spared from the bills of fare. Meat once a day is enough for any man, and even that can be cut off the daily menu once in a while with no harming the eater. Hot weather is close at hand and many folk are facing it with too much fat on their bones. Diet this excess off, get down to the ordinary weight and warm weather will not bother you. Follow Uncle Sam's advice, eat less, drink less and you will feel all the better for it.—Ex. Ed.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"My poor fellow," said the sympathetic pedestrian to a beggar, "how long have you been out of work?"

"I was born in '86, sir," responded the beggar respectfully.

Representative Campbell of Kansas said in a recent address in Leavenworth:

The corrupt man is always a stupid ignorant man.

"A corrupt voter was arrested once in Wyoma.

"'What am I arrested for?' he asked.

"'You are charged,' said the officer, with having voted eight times.'

"'Correct, rep' muttered the prisoner. 'That's right. I expected to be put for it.'

The teacher read to the class "The Landing of the Pilgrims." Then she requested each pupil to draw from imagination a picture of Plymouth Rock. Most of them went to work at once, but one little fellow hesitated and at last raised his hand.

"Well, Willie, what is it?" asked the teacher.

"Please, ma'am, do you want us to draw a hen on a rooster?"

AT A CHINESE INN.

The Scene In the Interior of the One Roomed Mud Hut.

The building was a long, one storied mud hut, with thatched roof. We entered. Behold what the frontiersman had created! The long room was the scene of homely industry. From the center rafter hung a big oil lamp, shedding its rays over a patriarchal family as busy as a hive of bees. By the clay stove sat the grandfather feeding the fire with twigs and tending a brood of children playing on a dirt floor packed hard, swept clean. From one corner came the merry whir of grinding millstones as a blindfolded donkey walked round and round, while a woman in red with a wonderful headdress gathered up the heaps of yellow cornmeal that oozed from the gray stones. More women in red threw the bright meal high in the air, winnowing it of its chaff, others leaned over clay mortars, pounding condiments with stone pestles.

Men were hurrying here and there with firewood, cooking for the travelers. One end of the room was reserved for these wayfarers, but the kang at the other end was divided into sections. From each rafter over each section swung quaint little cradles—in each cradle was a little brown baby, each baby tended by a larger child. Far away from the loud clamor of the western world we fell asleep in a clean inner room to the soft sound of swinging cradles and grinding millstones.—Atlantic Monthly.

BANKS "LOAN" MONEY.

They Don't "Lend" It Because It Is a Business Transaction.

Why is it banking houses always "loan" their huge sums of money, never by any chance "lend" them? "Lend" is the true verb, while "loan" was exclusively the noun. How came it about that "to loan" has uniformly supplanted "to lend?"

The purists make a great fuss about this. They insist that the stupid and untaught financial world has foisted upon the language a substantive verb when no new verb was needed, when the ancient and established usage was fixed in the signification of "to lend." But prior to the modern development of business enterprise when money was lent it was bestowed upon the borrower either for temporary use without compensation, as a mark of favor or patronage, or by the professional money lender who, taking advantage of persons in extremities of need, demanded usurious interest. This Anglo-Saxon verb today retains its ancient connotation. When it was coined the productive powers of money were unknown and the wealth of rich men was locked up for safety and kept out of the channels of commerce.

Nowadays, by devices of credit and rapid intercommunication, it is kept constantly working in productive enterprises. Immense loans are made, no longer to relieve the necessitous and the improvident, but to stimulate industry and to enable the borrower as well as the loaner to reap a profit in his transactions. Money is "loaned" in this sense. It is not lent.—New York Times.

The People of India.

The population of India speak about 150 different languages and are divided up into forty-three distinct nationalities. There are 2,378 main castes besides a large number of subcastes. There are 200,000,000 Hindus, 62,000,000 Mohammedans, while among the Hindus there are 50,000,000 of degraded people of no caste, who se touch or even shadow is supposed to cause pollution.

Limited in number, but mighty in influence, are the Parsees, who hold the wealth of Bombay in the hollow of their hands and dwell in the [illegible] mansions around the coast. They conform to European customs and live as much like Europeans as is possible for a colored race. Yet these people still worship the sun.

The Seychelles Islands.

The Seychelles islands form an archipelago of 114 islands and are situated about 1,400 miles east of Aden and 1,000 miles from Zanzibar. They rise steeply out of the sea, culminating in the isle of Mahe, which is about 3,000 feet above the level of the ocean and is nearly the center of the group. All the islands are of coral growth. The houses are built of a species of massive coral hewn into square blocks which glisten like white marble.

ASLEEP AT THE WHEEL.

A Reason For Some of the Automobile Accidents at Night.

Frequently when there is an accident where the automobile runs off the road, hits an obstruction or is upset the driver or some other occupant of the car or the reporter says that "the steering gear gave way." Yet it is safe to venture that it is not the real reason for the accident. What often happens is that the driver goes to sleep.

In a report of an accident some time ago the driver frankly said he must have dozed, and the last thing he knew he was under the car, which was thrown against an abutment. The soporific effect of driving an auto at night for several hours is really responsible for more accidents than defective construction. The constant vibration of the steering wheel, the continuous noise of the machine and the drone of the wind have the same effect as does the buzz of an electric fan on most folk.

Before the driver realizes it he is getting drowsy. The wheel is held more and more loosely. Gradually the car takes the line of least resistance, aided by the slacking (but not totally relaxed) control of the driver. The next thing he knows he is off the road. Sometimes the car overturns. Sometimes the driver escapes, together with the occupants of the car. Oftentimes the dereliction results in injury or death.

If more drivers realized the danger of not keeping awake there would be fewer accidents. At least this is the opinion of experienced drivers.—Chicago Journal.

HOW WARS START.

An Ocean Cable Would Have Averted Our Conflict of 1812.

Had there been an ocean telegraph in 1812 there might not have been a war with England at that time. Five days after President Madison signed the declaration of war England recalled the orders in council which had provoked it. The purpose to recall the orders was unknown in America, while in England nothing was known of the war declaration when the orders were revoked. This war's most important battle, that of New Orleans, was fought fifteen days after the treaty of peace had been signed at Ghent. It was this battle which made Jackson a popular idol and gave him the presidency.

The first step in the Crimean war was Russia's invasion of Moldavia, months before diplomatic rupture with England and France.

The firing on Fort Sumter, which started the war between the states, is a familiar story.

The first shot of the Franco-Prussian war was by a French soldier on guard at Strasburg, [illegible] a day or two before [illegible] Imaus Hoffels.

The attempt on Bismarck's life as he was walking down the Unter den Linden on May 7, 1866, rallied public sentiment to him and his policy and from a dramatic standpoint may be said to have been the first shot in the Austro-Prussian war.

The blowing up of the Maine was the first blow in the Spanish-American war, which ended Spanish possessions in the new world.—Charlton Bates Strayer in Leslie's.

When Novels Were Really Long.

Though William de Morgan wrote some of the longest novels of recent times, his efforts were conciseness itself compared with the works of some of the seventeenth century romancers. Mlle de Scudery's once famous story, "Le Grand Cyrus," for instance, fills five folio volumes of 500 pages each in the English translation, and her contemporary, La Calprenede, was even more diffuse, his "Cleopatre" running into twenty three volumes. The leisurely method of the early novelists is well illustrated in "Partheuissa," by Roger Boyle, earl of Orrery, in which the eight hundredth page finds the two chief characters still engaged in the process of introducing themselves to each other, begun on page one.

Where the Guns Kick Hard.

Duck shooting at an altitude of 14,000 feet, on the Junin pampa, along the shore of the lake of that name is a sport that can be followed in Peru. Very peculiar effects are noted in this rarefied region, probably the highest altitude for this sport in the world. The guns kick viciously, and the shot does not scatter promptly, making long shots successful. This phenomenon is due to the lack of density of the air, which is only about eight pounds to the square inch against fifteen at sea level. Another interesting fact is that the ducks have no fishy taste, as fish do not exist in this altitude.

"The Almighty Dollar."

The idea of the forceful phrase "the almighty dollar" is much older than the time of Washington Irving. Ben Jonson's "Epistle to Elizabeth, Countess of Rutland," commences thus:

Whilst that for which all virtue now is sold,
And almost every vice, almighty gold.

—London Notes and Queries.

AGED KINGSTON WOMAN

Tells How She Recovered Her Strength

If the elderly people in Kingston could only realize what Vinol would do for them we would not be able to get enough to supply the demand. Following is a letter received from Mrs. A. E. Carson of this town. She says:—

"I am 69 years of age and had been ailing for a long time with indigestion. I got run down, was weak, dizzy and could not sleep at night. I consulted two doctors who said I had hardening of the arteries and at my age could not expect to be strong again. My daughter would give me no peace until I tried Vinol, as it had done so much for her. I have taken five bottles and my health and strength have come back, so I am able to do all the housework for my family of four, and I am recommending Vinol to all my friends."

The reason Vinol is so beneficial to old people is because it contains the very elements needed to replace declining strength with renewed vigor, viz., beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates, glycerophosphates and a mild tonic wine.

We want to ask every elderly person and every weak, run-down or debilitated person in Charleroi to call at our store and get a bottle of Vinol, with the understanding that we will return your money if it fails to benefit.

Exposing many of the evils and conditions of present day social life and pointing out the evils and consequences of follies in the matters of home and social positions one of the best Fox productions ever shown was "... Gives leading ... Grace Hamper and Stuart Holmes the Monday attraction at the Majestic theatre. Dorothy Dalton one of the most popular screen stars appeared in "The Dark Road" which was shown Tuesday. "The Web of Desire" with Ethel Clayton portraying the character of one drawn into the meshes of this consuming and destroying web was the Wednesday attraction. Another in the series of the Seven Deadly Sins namely "Greed" was shown Thursday Nance O'Neil was at her best in the leading role of this attraction. Perhaps one of the best features of the week was the Friday program Theda Bara in "Her Greatest Love". This is considered by many the crowning success of the famous star of vampire roles. For Saturday Earle Williams will be shown in "Arsene Lupin." Monday Gladys Brockwell will appear in "Her Temptation."

PALACE—CHARLEROI

Featuring the bill at the Palace theatre this week was the amateur show, conducted in accordance with the original ideas of Harry L. Barnhart under his personal direction. The arrangement was tasty and unique. Mr. Barnhart having developed to a great extent his plan of a cabaret by building an illuminated runway into the auditorium. A chorus of 30 took part. Prize awards were made on Wednesday with prizes being taken by Joe and Anna Torrith. Catherine Elder and Matilda Marconi. The latter part of the week a splendid bill of vaudeville is being offered. Dan Healey who has been 45 years on the stage and who holds the reputation of being the world's greatest tambourine player is being featured Gladstone and Leonard are appearing as singers and dancers. Vivian Sloan and Company have an act billed "When Women Rule—Year 2013.

COYLE—CHARLEROI

NEW DAVIS—PITTSBURG

All preparations are completed for the engagement of Gertrude Hoffman and her Revue of 1917 at the New Davis theatre next week. The distinctive creative artist and imitative caricaturist and her company of 40 people will constitute the premiere feature of the vaudeville show, in every respect worthy of the pleasant anticipation and lively interest which have been incited in advance. For her impressions of Isadore Duncan and Ruth St. Denis in the snake charmer dance, she has gathereed about her the real Hindoo atmosphere. The Singalese Troupe gives to her snake dance an environing verisimilitude, and the languorous atmosphere of the far east. Into an incensed laden scene, the dancer glides, surrounded by her Singalese native musicians and dancers. In an Oriental temple rich in its regal drapings and faithful in its reproduction of native costume. this episode promises to be one of the productions most pleasing features. From the beginning to end, the Revue will be a riot of color and action for Miss Hoffman admits of no lapse of time between the various incidents of her production. Mr. Davis is giving her high class companions for the forthcoming week. for his bill includes among a number of items of particular interest an engagement of Moon & Morris. perhaps the greatest dancers on the stage today. Al Lydell and Bob Higgins. two of America's drollest comedians in a rustic comedy called "A Friend of Father's." and Frank Crumit a versatile musician and monologist.

MARVELOUS HUNTERS.

Natives of Australia Are Wizards in the Art of Tracking.

In endurance and speed the Australian aborigine is not the equal of the American Indian, and his weapons of wood and poorly fashioned stones are effective only at short range, but as a hunter the native Australian is marvelously adjusted to his environment. CARRIER PIGEONS.

Messages They Carry Are Packed In Small Goose Quills.

The general notion that all that has to be done in forwarding a dispatch by pigeons is to catch the bird tie a letter to its leg and then liberate it is wrong, as the method of attaching the message is of great importance.

Prior to the siege of Paris the method of affixing the message to the bird had not received that attention which it demanded, and consequently many dispatches were lost in transit.

At first the message was merely rolled up tightly, waxed over to protect it from the weather and then attached to a feather in the bird's tail But it was soon found that the twine which kept the missive in place cut or damaged the paper, and therefore in order to prevent it from being pecked by the pigeon and from being injured by wet the dispatch was inserted in a small goosequill two inches in length.

The quill was then pierced close to each end with a redhot bodkin, so as not to split it, and in the holes waxed silk threads were inserted to affix it to the strongest tail feather. By attaching the message to this part of the bird's body its flight was not in any way interfered with.—Lone Scout.

Hunting the Emu.

The natives of Australia are ingenious. A black on discovering emus feeding on a plain will cover his back and head with an emu skin, allowing the long neck to hang down well on the side to ward the unsuspecting ... In his right hand he will carry hidden by the skin a boomerang and one or two throwing sticks or "waddies." Then his left arm will protrude beyond the skin straight out to the elbow, and the forearm will be bent up with the hand at right angles to it, thereby making a capital imitation of an emu's head and neck. Now and then his hand or head will be brought to the ground as if for feeding, and as the black walks along he imitates every motion of the bird while at the same time by means of the big toe he draws a spear along the ground. He proceeds thus until close enough to spear his bird.

His Trademarks.

Little redheaded Johnny got a job as office boy for the president of a large western railway. After he had been upon the job several days they gave him a form to fill out with his "Personal Record."

When young Johnny came to a particular paragraph that said, 'Have you any visible marks for identification in case of accident or death?" he rose from his chair and rushed over to a mirror near by to give himself a general inspection, then he returned to his task and wrote as his answer to this personal query, "Nothing except freckles" - Youth's Companion.

Equine Pedometers.

The whorls of hair on the coats of horses and other animals are natural pedometers, inasmuch as they register the locomotive activities of the animals on whose bodies they are found The best examples and the greatest number of these hairy whorls and crests are found on the domestic horse A notable instance is the graceful feathering that extends along the hollow of the flank, dividing the trunk of the animal from the hind quarters There are also crests and whorls on the horse's chest and other parts of its body A study of the action of the underlying muscles explains the origin of these peculiarities in the lay of the hair and furnishes the justification for calling them pedometers, although the analogy is, of course, merely superficial.—St. Louis Republic.

Teamwork on a Battleship.

The problem of naval expansion would not be so hard were it not for the fact that every ship ... a great number ... gunners ... the gun ... men that must work together as "a team" the greater the difficulty of accomplishing the "teamwork" and the longer the time required. In a ship, especially in a large ship like a battleship or battle cruiser, most of the men work together in large groups, such as turret crews 100 men sometimes composing a turret crew. Nevertheless the ship and all the men it floats are bound together by invisible cords that make a ship a unit, and the major effect of the training and of the drills of all kinds is to make the whole a living organism.—Rear Admiral Bradley A. SLEEPINESS AFTER MEALS.

It Indicates Something Wrong With the Digestive System.

A condition of drowsiness, which may become an irresistible desire to take a nap shortly after eating, is usually a very accurate indication that something is wrong with the digestive apparatus. Usually this form of indigestion is chronic in character, and apparently there is no other evidence that it exists, or at least such evidence would not be detected by ordinary observation.

In such cases the desire to take a nap comes on suddenly, but the nap is a very short one, ordinarily not more than fifteen minutes. Sometimes the desire for these "indigestion naps" comes on at other periods than those immediately following meals, but in such cases this desire comes regularly at certain periods of the day. The cause, however, is the same as in cases where drowsiness comes on immediately after the meal, the difference in time being simply the difference in the interval required for the food to reach the portion of the intestinal tract that is not working properly.

Occasional drowsiness following an unusually hearty meal should not be confused with the type of periodic desire for a short nap referred to here. Such drowsiness indicates simply that the digestive apparatus is temporarily overworked and may be in a perfectly healthy condition. This sort of drowsiness, if indulged, usually persists for several hours, whereas the naps caused by indigestion are always of short duration.—Exchange.

CAREER SEEKING WOMEN.

One Hundred a Day Flock to New York Tempting Fate.

One hundred women a day come career seeking in New York city. This is the figure furnished by Director C. B. Barns of the state bureau of employment. He bases his estimate upon the number of women handled daily by the Travelers' Aid, the number registered at hotels and those registered by the state bureau and other employment agencies.

One hundred women a day, 36,500 a year. A fraction over four every hour; approximately one every time the minute hand crosses the fifteen minute mark.

Mr. Barns estimates that a large percentage of career seekers come from up state and towns about New York and New Jersey. Probably 50 per cent, he says, come from western states. The smallest portion of the number comes from the south. Some succeed; more fail. Yet always others come, answering the call of the minute hand as it mills round and round like the finger of Fate beckoning.

Statistics are impersonal. They say nothing of who the women are nor why they come nor what they find instead of what they expect. They don't say there's tragedy in a head shake. And a laugh round the edge of tragedy.

Statistics haven't told the whole story. They do not say that hope, promise, disaster wait a hundred times a day for the woman who comes to New York.—Winifred Van Duzer in New York American.

The Popular Side of the Street.

Owners or renters of retail stores should look out for the side of the street on which the property is located. Illustrative of this is the testimony of a real estate expert in a case some time ago that ground floors on the west side of Broadway, New York, should lease for $150 a front foot more than similar property across the street. The value of a retail business depends on the number of passersby, and the difference in this respect may result in a booming trade on one side of a street and only moderate success on the other. Some men are able to acquire such a reputation for their goods that the people go to them even when they are inconveniently located, but it is a good deal easier in building up a trade to put yourself on the route traversed by the crowds.—Leslie's.

Even Kipling Will Pun.

There is a new story about Mr. Kipling, for which G. F. Monkshood is responsible, having brought it out in his book, "The Less Familiar Kipling and Kiplingana." It appears that a friend asked Kipling whether he would not write on airmen, as he had done on the commanders and crews of submarines. "Perhaps, some day," replied Mr. Kipling. "Oh, but you must!" insisted his friend. "Let's see whether we can hit on a good title." "Well," said Mr. Kipling, after a moment's reflection, "what do you say to 'Plane Tails From the Sky?'"

Might Have Been Worse.

A Wisconsin man says that he was held up to ridicule because some one painted a harness on his horse. But that's nothing to the fun that would have been created if he'd led a set of harness from the barn and then found that the horse within it was only a painted one.—Buffalo Express.

THE WORRY HABIT.

It Not Only Kills Peace of Mind, but Is a Menace to Health.

The protective instinct is present in the human mind and when properly directed is a great source of prosperity both to the individual and the nation. In order for man to store up and lay by, to gain advancement either in honor or material things, it is necessary that he take some forethought of the morrow, but just so soon as he carries this beyond the normal point the mental process becomes an exaggerated and abnormal one.

The normal protective instinct is stimulated by a normal fear of those events which are reasonably sure to happen in the future unless means are adopted against them. The moment that this fear becomes abnormal or exaggerated it overstimulates this protective instinct, and to no good purpose, because it results in worry. This worry continues long after the necessity for the normal stimulus of fear has passed, with the result that there is an impairment in mental power and a dissipation of the nervous forces. In fact, worry is an abnormal state.

Not all worry is preventable, but for the most part it can be avoided. Most of our fears are never realized, and, as a rule, if we meet our troubles day by day as they come without worrying about them before they arrive or fretting over them after they have passed we will find that we have the strength to rise above them. Worry undermines the health to a certain extent, and every victim of the worry habit owes it to himself to crush it out of his life.—Bulletin of Public Health Service.

DINED WITH THE DUKE.

No Common Kitchen Would Do For This Soldier of the Guard.

During the peninsular war a strip of vineyards running between the two lines was a sort of neutral ground, where the men from both armies were in the habit of repairing for drinks and relaxation, in the course of which opposing forces often came across one another, but each passed their own way after courteous salutes. One day a British party had drunk somewhat freely and, happening upon a French sergeant of the guard, insisted upon making him a prisoner. The man was brought before the Duke of Wellington and lost no time in acquainting him with his plight.

"All right," said the duke good naturedly. "Of course you shall go, but you must have something to eat first." And, turning to an orderly, he said, "Have this man taken to the kitchen and given a good meal." The Frenchman saluted but made no attempt to express his thanks. Noticing his looks, the duke said:

"Well, what more do you want?"

"General," replied the Frenchman, drawing himself up proudly, "a soldier of the guard is never asked to eat in the kitchen."

The duke bent his brow a moment as if resenting the man's aplomb, then, laughing, said:

"Maybe you're right. Come and dine with me."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Lincoln as a Gallant.

Although wanting in the language of gallantry, Lincoln was not incapable of turning a neat compliment. The artist Carpenter has told me of one that would have pressed Chesterfield hard. An enthusiastic lady gave the president an entirely superfluous bouquet. The situation was momentarily embarrassing, but "with no appearance of discomposure he stooped down, took the flowers and, looking from them into the sparkling eyes and radiant face of the lady, said, with a gallantry I was unprepared for, 'Really, madam, if you give them to me and they are mine I think I cannot possibly make so good a use of them as to present them to you in return.'"—Helen Nicolay's "Personal Traits of Abraham Lincoln."

Getting the Air.

I have known city men, hundreds of them, who had a firm conviction that one of the greatest obstacles in their way to becoming healthy lay in the fact that city air has less ozone in it than the air up state or at the seashore. True, the air down by the sidewalks would not assay as high in ozone as that in the Catskill mountains, but the difference chemically is so slight that it isn't worth talking about.—Dr. L. R. Welzmiller in World's Work.

Horse Chestnuts.

Certain chemists are endeavoring to adapt the horse chestnut to the human dietary. The nuts are more than half starch and sugar, with some proteid and fat, and are nutritious. Their value chiefly depends on the elimination of the bitter elements and the irritating saponin-like glucosides.

Superenergy.

Little Jane and Josephine were busily engaged in helping mother dry the dinner dishes.

"But, Jane, you didn't get that plate dry," objected her sister.

"Yes, I did!" exclaimed Jane eagerly. "I dried it so hard that it perspired."—New York Times.

Too Much Prudence.

Gwennie—Why did you refuse him if he is such a prudent man? Gertie—He said he thought if he got married he could save more money.—London Opinion.

Cheap Imitation.

The Shopper—Are these genuine goldfish? The Sales Person—No'm, not at that price. These are only rolled plate.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The devil tempts us not; 'tis we tempt him.—George Eliot.

"You've Got the Goods, Atlantic"

"Today, the specific gravity test is practically worthless as a check on the suitability of a gasoline, for example, for a given motor equipment. * * * It seems most probable that the definition of gasoline will have to be based on the percentage that distills over between specified temperatures, when the distillation is carried out under specified conditions. * * *

"The gasoline must not vaporize too freely for two reasons. One, that it would not be safe, and secondly, its loss in storage by evaporation would be too great. Hence, the specification may have to contain limitations of the percentage distilling over below a certain temperature, coupled perhaps with a proviso that certain percentages shall distil over below other fixed temperatures, in order that requisite amounts of low-boiling constituents shall be present to insure easy starting of an engine.

"Likewise the specification must contain a proviso that all must distil over below a certain maximum temperature, in order to exclude from the gasoline the heavier petroleum distillates, such as kerosene."

Official Press-Statement by U. S. Govt. Bureau of Standards.

We've been preaching and practicing the same thing for years. The boiling-point of Atlantic Gasoline is always uniform. It meets Uncle Sam's ideas perfectly.

HENDERSON AND PINCHO WELL MATCHED FOR BOUT

Two faster youngsters than the pair that will meet here Saturday night in the final boxing show of the local season have not been developed in western Pennsylvania in a long time. Marty Henderson of Donora and Young Pincho of Charleroi are a fair example of the development in the same section at the same time of two high-grade glove artists who are just naturally rivals from the start.

Both Pincho and Henderson have been working like beavers for the past two weeks in preparation for this scrap, and each is confident that he will come off with a knockout victory to his credit. Henderson has worked even harder than his opponent, for he is a trifle the larger of the two, and it will require some effort and careful nursing to bring him down to the required mark, 116 pounds, at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and allow him to be strong and vigorous at ringtime.

COURT DETERMINES LOCAL MAN MUST PAY TO SUPPORT CHILDREN

Byron Matson of Charleroi, was the defendant in a prosecution for support brought by his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Matson have been married almost 35 years. They have seven children, the oldest a boy, being 32 years of age. Mrs. Matson is an invalid and cannot walk without being assisted. She testified that her husband worked and properly supported his family until about 1906 or 1907. Since that time he has been drinking abused her, neglected his family, and failed to properly support them. He once agreed to do better but he broke this agreement. A son, Clarence, who lives at home, said he assisted in supporting his mother. Also a son, Bert aged 26 years lives at home and helps in the support. The defense endeavored to show that the wife and family had turned against the defendant and had driven him from home Mrs. Matson testified, however, that she gave her husband money to go and pay the taxes and that he took a trip and squandered the money and when he returned she ordered him away from the house. The court ruled that under the wife's testimony she was not entitled to support, since she would not again live with her husband. However he must support the two minor children. He was ordered to pay $8 a week for their support

2 Drops Make Corn "Fall" Off!

"I've joined the Never-Again Club. Never again will I use anything for corns but 'Gets-It.' Put 2 drops of 'Gets-It' on, and from that second the corn begins to shrivel.

"Oh, Don't Touch It! It's So Sore!" Use "Gets-It" and It Will Never Be Sore!

"Certainly it is, sir," replied George coolly, "but you don't expect me to support my creditors too?"—Exchange.

A PEOPLE OF CONTRASTS.

Italians, Like Their Land, Endowed With Great Physical Charm.

Province by province Italy manifests a varying charm and the people differ as widely as their surroundings. The hot blooded southerner observes a different standard of morals and hygiene, fires to anger or interest more quickly and is generally less dependable and industrious than his northern brother. Both are gifted with the black eyes and hair and the swarthy complexion as a race that is a general characteristic of the Latin peoples. But the Italian is, broadly speaking, like his country, endowed with a physical beauty and charm beyond that of most of his fellows.

In the north, however, there are exceptions—fair haired and reddish men and women, who seem strangely out of place among their dark neighbors. Cool, temperate exotics they are among the higher colored growths that somehow seem so tropical, with their sultry smiles and fathomless, mysterious eyes, in which forever broods the shadow of the purple mountains that always and everywhere dominates all Italy, even to the delightful carabinieri, or rural guards, those Napoleonic looking officials who parade always solemnly in pairs, hangers at their sides, cockades in their black beavers, the majesty of the law in every line and footstep.—National Geographic Magazine.

BUSINESS SIGNBOARDS.

They Were Used at First Only by the Inns and Taverns.

The first tradesmen to adopt the use of signs were the innkeepers, and from earliest times in England and on the continent the taverns of town and country were distinguished by signboards bearing the names of the hostelries. It was not until the sixteenth century that merchants dealing in other than liquid refreshments began to erect signs over their doors.

Once started the custom spread rapidly, and the seventeenth century was a period of prosperity for the sign painters of England. Even in London the houses and shops were not numbered, so a tradesman's place of business could only be known by a sign. The ingenuity of the merchants was taxed in such a city as London to provide an original sign that would stick in the memories of passersby.

A man starting in business considered a striking sign his most important investment. These signs, often huge in size, were sometimes slung entirely across the street. As they grew old they occasionally fell and thus became a source of danger. Such signs were prohibited by parliament in the year 1762, and after that merchants had to be content with more modest signs placed flat against the fronts of their buildings.—New York World.

Whistler Was a Dandy.

If taking infinite pains with his appearance means dandrism, then Whistler was a dandy. The very word pleased him, and he used it often, in American fashion, to express perfection or charm or beauty. Never was any man more particular about his person and his dress. He was as careful of his hair as a woman, though there was no need of the curling tongs with which he has been reproached; the difficulty was to restrain his curls and keep them in order. The white lock gave just the right touch. However fashion changed, he always wore the mustache and little imperial which other West Point men of his generation retained through life. Even his thick, bushy eyebrows were trained, and they added to the humorous or sardonic expression of the deep blue eyes from which many shrank.—Pennell's "Life of Whistler."

Epitaph of a Cynic.

John Goodman of Sulton, Surrey county, England, was a cynic. His own will convicts him of so being. He directed in this document that no women be allowed in his funeral cortege. And on his tombstone he bade that the following verse be carved:

Farewell, vain earth. I've had enough of thee,
And now am careless what thou say'st of me.
Thy smiles I car'st not, nor thy frowns I fear.
My care is past, my head lies quiet here.
What faults you see in me take care to shun
And look at home, enough is to be done.

Photographic Films.

The photographic film was developed in the larger sense by the Rev. Hannibal Goodwin. This man made possible moving pictures. Goodwin died poor—poorer than if he had never invented anything—after a long fight in the courts with a photographic company that fought his right to obtain a patent.

Curious Extinct Animal.

The Amblypoda was one of the most curious of the extinct species of mammal. They were the size of the elephant and had five toes on each foot ending in hoofs instead of nails. Remains of these have been found in England, but the best specimens have come from North America.

A Domestic Sacrifice.

If husband becomes angry on Monday and tells wife she can't buy a certain thing the poor woman knows she must do without it until Tuesday.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

"Recruiting Kiss", Invented by Actress, Helps Men to Recognize Patriotic Duty

Osculant Ceremony Gives New Courage to Men Who Pause at Threshold—Sometimes it is Given as a Reward

The "recruiting kiss" is a comparatively new institution. But it is one of the most inspiring ceremonies in the process of converting an American civilian into a soldier. Miss Frances Jordan, of the "You're in Love" company is the inventor and sole dispenser. And she is a volunteer. When men hesitate at the threshold, so to speak, her osculant encouragement is always effective. She bestows her caresses with feeling and enthusiasm, after the manner that kisses are bestowed on the stage. It is reported that her work is a real stimulus to recruiting wherever she is wont to visit. She works purely from a sense of patriotic duty.

DO AWAY WITH RIFLES IS ORDER OF POLICE

The declaration of war between the United States and Germany has led to the rather extensive use of air guns and flobert rifles within illegal bounds, and also to the rather extensive use of language by persons who object. Consequently the police are conducting a campaign of prohibition and are after all those boys or older persons guilty of shooting them in the borough limits. The lowest fine is $5.

Dangerous Sport.

Second Lady—How dreadful!

"Yes, here are the words. 'Taylor getting out in two; Braid secured a half.'"

"Well, Tommy?"

"Does it say what happened to the other half?"

"No, but there was worse to follow. According to the report, Taylor then fell completely to pieces."—Exchange.

Tomatoes.

The city gardener who has only a small space for cultivation must be an intensive farmer, and there is no crop with which intensive farming gives better results than with tomatoes, says today's bulletin from the National Emergency Food Garden Commission. When tomatoes are grown commercially in the country the vines are usually allowed to sprawl out along the ground, which they do to the extent of several feet. Many of the fruits thus grown are lost by rotting.

If this were the only method of growing tomatoes they would not be a good crop for the home garden because of the room they thus occupy. But by the use of intensive methods the plants can be brought into such small compass that they become one of the heaviest food producers to the square foot of ground.

The vines must be trained to climb. In hot houses, where every foot space is valuable, tomatoes are always trained on trellises. In the garden they can be tied to 5-foot poles, and in this way other crops can be planted close to them.

One way to do is to pinch off the side branches as they appear so that all of the plants vigor will go into the main stalk which can be trained [illegible] plant but a fence in each row with a fence about 1 foot high on both sides of the row and lay slats across this fence to support the vines. The pruned plants can be as close together as 18 inches, the others about 3 feet.

Transplanting strengthens tomato because the growing season for them is long, they are usually started from seed in pots or boxes indoors and then set out after the weather is warm.
